

FM translator service serves an important and vital function in local communities. Translator service allows stations such as KLOVE to reach into areas not otherwise possible, and if replaced by LPFM would leave a tremendous void in the communities it serves. Many areas would no longer be served by stations such as KLOVE, which provides commercial free access to christian broadcasting, access which would not be provided any other way. Because of the state of the commerical radio corporate strucure, there is not enough money to be made in this type of broadcasting, and other broadcasters would not fill the void left if KLOVE lost its translator service.